Dear Ms. Hanlon:

I am writing to express my concerns regarding the plan to ship Irradiated Fuel Rods through St. Louis, MO to Yucca Mountain, Nevada. These concerns include the following:

Why is the public so uninformed about this plan?

Why is it necessary to initiate this movement now, especially considering the recent attack on the US?

What security plans are in place to ensure safety?

Have the citizens along the transport corridor been provided with this information, including what action to take if there is an accident?

Have the issues regarding the suitability of the Yucca Mountain site been honestly addressed?

I feel these questions should be addressed prior to any transport. I would also like to suggest that public forums, particularly in the transport routes and storage location, be held.

This issue has just recently been made known to me. It has peaked my interest and I will make every effort to involve myself to further understand the need to transport these materials. Any information that you could supply would be appreciated

Sincerely,

Robert Janzen
